companion to urban and regional studies indispensable overview and timely coverage of the major issues debates and research topics in urban and regional studies companion to urban and regional studies offers an up to date view of the rapidly growing field exploring a diversity of theoretical perspectives current and emerging research and critical global policy concerns uniquely broad in geographical and thematic scope this comprehensive volume brings together essays by more than fifty international scholars and researchers to provide expert assessments spanning the many dimensions of urban studies organized into five parts the companion begins with a review of the current state of cities across east asia sub saharan africa north america europe and latin america and all other world regions subsequent sections discuss contemporary theoretical perspectives describe common methodological approaches used by urban scholars and examine the political social and economic problems facing twenty first century cities covering historical issues current challenges and comparative perspectives in urban studies this timely resource addresses intensely debated policy issues such as governance housing immigration and migration segregation social mix and gentrification describes the use of demographic methods advanced spatial analysis social networks policy mobilities and ethnographies in urban studies research discusses critical urban theory feminist urban research urbanization and environmental change and the legacy of the chicago school covers contemporary research topics such as urban and regional inequalities social heterogeneity and diversity financialization includes representative case studies of each region including australasia latin america east asia and south asia companion to urban and regional studies is essential reading for scholars researchers practitioners urban activists and students and it represents a must have complement to the wiley blackwell encyclopedia of urban and regional studies this book draws upon a range of research from western europe and north america to critically assess the contribution of clusters to urban and regional development this book was previously published as a special issue of the journal urban studies this book re evaluates a rich scientific heritage of space and history sensitive development theories and produces an integrated methodology for the comparative analysis of urban and regional trajectories within a globalized world the main argument put forward is that current mainstream analyses of urban and regional development have forgotten this rich heritage and fail to address the connections between different dimensions of development the role of history and the importance of place and scale relations the proposed methodology integrates elements from different theories radical economic geography regulation approach cultural political economy old and new institutionalism that all share a strong concern with time and space dynamics they are recombined into an interdisciplinary meta theoretical framework capable of articulating the overall problem of socio economic development and providing methodological anchors for comparative case study analysis while recognizing context specificities the analytical methodology focuses on key dynamics and relations such as strategic agency and collective action institutions and structures culture and discourse as well as the tension between path dependency and path shaping the methodology is then applied to eight urban and regional cases mostly from western europe but also from the united states and china the case studies confirm the relevance of time and space sensitive analysis not only for understanding development trajectories but also for policy making they ultimately highlight that while post war institutions were able to address systemic contradictions and foster a relatively inclusive development model the neoliberal turn has led to reductionist policies that not only have resulted in an increase in social and spatial inequalities but have also undermined growth and democracy the goal of this book the first in a series is to bring policymakers practitioners and scholars up to speed on the state of knowledge on various aspects of urban and regional policy what do we know about the effectiveness of select policy approaches reforms or experiments on key social and economic problems facing cities suburbs and metropolitan areas what can we say about what works what doesn't and why and what does this knowledge and experience imply for future policy questions the authors take a fresh look at several different issues e.g. economic development education land use and conceptualize how each should be thought of once the contributors have presented the essence of what is known as well as the likely implications they identify the knowledge gaps that need to be filled for the successful formulation and implementation of urban and regional policy this book is comprised of articles and papers that have come about after years of academic and applied research endeavors of the practitioners and academicians in the field of urban and regional development planning most of these articles have already been presented and deliberated in national and international conferences held in different parts of the world namely indianapolis newcastle upon tyne rome istanbul cairo alexandria vienna stockholm jeddah riyadh jubail islamabad penang and bandung the concepts and case studies described in this book bring home the fact that the world is undergoing a gyrational transition not only are developed and developing countries getting influenced by each other and transforming due to a process of circular causation but each of the two sets of countries are also undergoing a simultaneous internal transformation due to the differential infusion of technology and indigenous entrepreneurship as a consequence highly diversified urban systems are getting integrated interactively leading to the formation of a global village and achievement of a unity in diversity
